Y'ALL COME VOTE!

SECTOR ONE NEWS

The North University Neighborhood Association (NUNA), as a neighborhood in Sector One (a planning area of Austin), has been participating in the monthly Sector One Council meetings. Sector One is bounded by Lamar/Guadalupe, 51st Street, IH-35 and Town Lake. It was organized in January of 1985.

The Sector Council is a link between the neighborhoods in Sector One; between the neighborhoods and City Departments, such as the Finance Department; and between the Sector Council participants and the City's Department of Planning and Growth Management for Austin's Comprehensive Plan: Austinplan.

Susanne Cannon, of the Original City Neighborhood, was recently elected Chair of Sector One. Mike McHone, of Save University Neighborhoods, was the first Chair of Sector One. Mike and two other Sector One participants (Pert Cromack of Hyde Park and Natalie deBlois of Heritage Neighborhood) are now members of the Comprehensive Plan Steering Committee.

The March Sector One meeting was devoted to Recreation/Open Space issues. The neighborhoods discussed their responses to a questionnaire and mapped their concerns. Representatives from the Parks & Recreation Department and from the Office of Land Development Services attended the meeting to talk about funding and planning for future recreation needs.

The subject of the next Sector meeting will be transportation issues.

NEW ART GALLERY OPENS

In October of 1985 Donald L. Williams added to the cultural environment of our neighborhood by opening the L'Essence de Lavi Art Gallery at 510 W. 35th at the corner of Guadalupe.

Don Williams was born in Houston but spent much of his childhood in Canada. There he developed a special sensitivity to nature, which is reflected in his paintings. Although he returned to Houston, he spent four years abroad, from 1975 to 1979.

During this period, his works were ex- hibited in London.

In January of 1980 he moved to Austin, where he has now realized his dream of opening his own art gallery.

Currently Mr. Williams is displaying works of local artists, three of whom are native Austinites -- Charles Jones, Regina Thomas, and Ueri Svjaginstev. Also showing are works by Darryl Trott, from Australia, and Mark Poilpre from France.

In January of 1986, Williams added an art supply center, Austin Arts, featuring architectural and graphic supplies.

Art classes will also be held at the gallery.

Williams is sponsoring a community garage sale next Saturday and Sunday -- April 5th and 6th. Here's a great opportunity to sell those items you no longer need. Call him at 451-1115.

Q. How can I get a schedule for the bus in my area?

A. Capital Metro bus schedules are displayed at more than 100 locations throughout the Austin area, including public libraries and many state office buildings. But the most convenient way to get a specific schedule is to call Capital Metro's Customer Information Center at 474-1200... we'll be glad to send you one in the mail.

Q. What can I do if I experience a problem on the bus?

A. Even though we have supervisors on the road at all times, quite often the best source of information regarding our service is our customers. If you experience a problem with any of Capital Metro's services, please call the Passenger Assistance Department at 385-0190. We will make every effort to investigate the problem and provide you with a prompt reply.

Q. How can I tell what route a bus is serving when I am standing at a bus stop?

A. Each bus is equipped with a destination sign, mounted above the windshield. This sign displays the number and name of the route currently being served. Some buses also have a smaller version of this sign on the side, near the door. Also, buses display additional destination information in the lower left corner of the windshield. In the future, some bus stop signs also will list bus routes served at that location.
